Clinical Intervention - Clinical Contact

Inmate Name: WELCH, ERIC DEXTER		Reg #: 10444-089
Date of Birth: 03/15/1970	Sex: M	Facility: MAR
Date: 06/22/2017 08:24	Provider: Novotney, Jon PsyD	Unit Team: UM EAST

Focus of Session

Inmate WELCH was referred to psychology by his work supervisor, in response to a perceived increase in stress and anxiety at his place of employment.

Subjective/Objective Presentation

Inmate WELCH was escorted to this writer's office. He appeared appropriately groomed and euthymic upon arrival (i.e., was laughing with the officer escorting him, smiling, and said "good morning"). During the clinical interaction, inmate WELCH reported mild to moderate symptoms of anxiety associated with his work assignment. He reportedly had spoken with multiple departments about concerns with his current employment situation, and stated his desire to "ride out" the current job for approximately 7 months until another desirable job presented itself. Though he expressed some situational specific stressors, he reported a multitude of positive coping strategies and support which have allowed him to effectively regulate his emotions during this time (i.e., increased exercise, increased prayer, and additional family support from the community). In addition, inmate WELCH reported he is excited about an upcoming visit from his children, who he has not seen in approximately 15 months.

MENTAL STATUS: Mood and affect were within normal limits. Speech was normal in rate, volume and tempo. He was alert and oriented to person, place, date, and situation. Grooming and hygiene were appropriate. The inmate denied delusional or psychotic symptoms. He denied recent or current thoughts of self-harm and there was no overt evidence to suggest suicidal ideation. Inmate WELCH was asked if he was currently suicidal and he stated, "No."

Intervention(s)

Reflective listening was utilized to support inmate WELCH and build rapport. He denied experiencing significant stressors which necessitate additional services from psychology at this time.

Progress/Plan

Inmate WELCH has been actively engaged in his mental health care. His mental status appears to be stable at this time and he denied any current or recent significant mental health concerns requiring additional mental health services. Inmate WELCH was reminded of the mental health services currently available (individual therapy and treatment groups). He was reminded of the various ways to obtain psychological services. He agreed to seek assistance if problems arise or if there is a change in his mental status. No follow-up is currently planned or clinically warranted.

NAME: Eric Welch
PROBATION/PAROLE AGENT: Joyce Essich
PROBATION/PRISON NUMBER:

ATTENDANCE (How many sessions): Testing (1 session) + 7 additional

LENGTH OF TIME IN PRIVATE TREATMENT (From when to when): From April 12, 2001, through May 9, 2002.

CURRENT MENTAL STATUS: Alcoholism in remission, no drugs, some degree of anger/resentment remains that is driving depressive episodes. He is emotionally stable at this time, relationships have normalized, there is lowered or no attraction to adolescents, and obsessive sexual characteristics are decreased. There is no danger to self or community at this time.

SUMMARY OF PARTICIPATION IN INDIVIDUAL THERAPY, PROGRESS, AND GOAL-ATTAINMENT: Eric worked very hard in therapy. He is highly intelligent and insightful which allows him to make more rapid progress than average. He also was doing both individual and group therapy which was a good program for him.

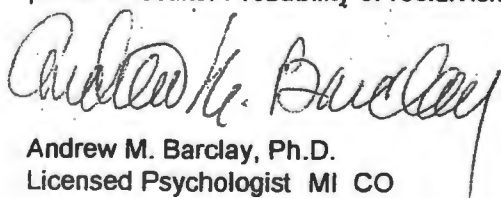

CLINICAL IMPRESSIONS DURING SESSIONS: He was remorseful regarding the pain and suffering he had caused others. He worked hard to make sure that his bad behavior would not happen again. He is alcohol and drug-free which has been a big help toward stabilizing his behavior.

LEVELS AT TERMINATION OF THERAPY:

Psychopathology: 2/10 Denial: 2/10
Anger: 5/10 Impulsiveness: 2/10

RECOMMENDATIONS RE. SUPERVISION (Agree/Disagree & Comment)

Eric has achieved the outcomes desired in therapy and can be discharged from probation with positive results. Probability of recidivism is low

MEMO

DATE: March 25, 2013
TO: Mr. Eric Welch, Fed. Reg. No. 10444-089
FROM: Dr. Donald Wilde
REGARDING: Completion of Sex Offender Course at Total Heath

As it turns out, a PhD Student from MSU had used many sex offender files while working on her doctoral thesis. She handled those files appropriately and returned them to me a few years ago. I just remembered about this this morning and dug up those old boxes of sex offender files. Yours was one of them. That is surely good news.

I'm including with this correspondence a copy of a generic statement that I had written for you back in January 2002. It is not the official discharge form but it should help complete your paperwork. I also have the old official discharge form but those sorts of documents can only be released with properly signed releases and only to another professional. If the time comes where that document is essential and there is a psychologist to whom I could release it, I could do so. It is a positive but not glowing report.

Meanwhile, one of the positives noted in that old paperwork is that you are quite capable of deep introspection. I recommend that you employ those skills these days, too. This is Holy Week. Next Sunday is Easter. In my opinion, nobody knows the trouble you've seen as fully and judges as fairly as God. You might want to talk to Him about all of this. Be sure to listen as much as you speak.

All the best....
